

Delegates from the University of Economics, Ho Chi Minh City, Vietnam visited Informatics Campus, Singapore

Singapore, 6 May 2005: For a learning experience in Singapore's education segment, including the Republic's educational institutions as well as experience in the business management arena of Singapore's enterprises, the Rector of the University of Economics, Ho Chi Minh City, Vietnam, has appointed a delegation of the University's lecturers and students to visit Singapore from 3 – 7 May, 2005.

The delegation from the University of Economics, Ho Chi Minh City, Vietnam, with some of Informatics management staff.

The first stop of their visit is at the 600,000 sq ft Informatics Campus, Singapore. Mr. Tran Hoang Ngan, Dean of Banking Faculty (University of Economics) together with his other 11 fellow colleagues were impressed with the infrastructure and the facilities that Informatics campus provides to the students.

The management team at Informatics welcomed the delegates with a campus tour, formal presentation about the Informatics Group and had discussions over possible collaborations over lunch.

The delegates showed keen interest on the flexible learning methodologies that Informatics offered to its students.

Said Lawrence Wee, Vice President of Higher Education and PurpleTrain.com at Informatics: "At Informatics, we offer quality higher education programmes from renowned universities via Flexi-Learning. We hope to bring such benefits to students around the world and definitely to students in Vietnam. As such, we look forward to a tie-up with the University of Economics."
